

A Word of Comfort in Bereavement

A Personal Letter of Condolence

Reflections Reflections 14 June 2026

For a dear sister in Christ, mourning her husband:

It is hard to believe that a month has passed since he entered into the presence of the Lord. Through all your years together, the two of you were truly one — sharing life's joys, burdens, and blessings side by side. While the emptiness of his absence is deeply felt, may you find comfort in the assurance that those who die in Christ are never lost, but only gone before us. The God who sustained you both through your journey together will continue to hold you close, strengthen your heart, and fill you with His peace. May the blessed hope of that glorious reunion in eternity bring light to your days and courage to your spirit. You remain in our prayers and affection.
